

NO CONTRACTS NEEDED

INDEPENDENT MUSIC TAKES OVER SOMERVILLE THEATRE

SOMERVILLE, MA: On March 29th, 2008, The Opsercian Company and Slyrox Music will be bringing independent, live, local music to the Somerville Theatre with their concert, No Contracts Needed. The concert's headliner, 3rd Left of Plymouth, MA has played with and is friends with State Radio, Chad Urmston's post-Dispatch project. On the Drop, Dave Crespo & the After Party, The Ride, Someday Rome and The Opsercian High School Rompetition winner, Ubiquitous will fill out the rest of the concert's line up.

The concert is dedicated to becoming a new medium for people to hear about the most talented local bands. Each band on the bill has something that is rare within the local music scene, which is the perfect mix of ambition and talent. Before and after No Contracts Needed happens all six participating bands are impacting New England's local music scene.

3rd Left: It is said that 3rd Left may be releasing their 3rd CD at No Contracts Needed on March 29th. This album will be the first disc from the band featuring their new trumpet player, Johnny Souza. The four-piece band has been playing their style of jammed out rock music in Boston for four years now. 3rd Left's first shows in Boston were booked by Dave Crespo back in 2004 at small bars within the Bullfinch Triangle.

The Ride: Formed in New Hampshire, The Ride is not only used to the drive from Boston and back, but also all over the rest of New England. The Ride is the kind of band that plays everywhere all the time. Their version of spaced out rock music has acquired a solid following and is being compared to The Disco Biscuits.

On the Drop: On the Drop is hitting their stride with No Contracts Needed. A month ago they were named the "Newbury Comics Local Band of the Week," and eleven days after this gig on March 29th, they will be playing in the WBCN Rock N' Roll Rumble. With their aggressive reggae rock, On the Drop is looking to the spring to take their music to a new level in Boston's music scene.

Dave Crespo & the After Party: The co-promoter of No Cotnracts Needed, Dave Crespo will be taking the Somerville Theatre's stage third. Crespo started out in Boston as a solo acoustic act, however has within a years time turned his act into a full band experience with the After Party. The band has a pop rock sound that is lead by Crespo's song writing and the powerful female vocals of Cary Wells.

Ubiquitous: Hailing from Lexington, Massachusetts, this young band found their way on this bill by winning the Opsercian Rompetition held at The Middle East Upstairs on February 2nd, 2008. Ubiquitous sounds like a mix between Incubus and early Radiohead.

Someday Rome: Someday Rome is used to playing in Davis Square at The Burren. This jump to a bigger stage across the street is welcomed with a smile by the band. Their pop rock sound is along the lines of Jack Johnson with more energy.
